A Christmas Party.

While the colored citizens of Ruckles Mills vicinity were engaged in their Christmas services Tuesday night, a scene not on the program was enacted. Ike Curtis, lately returned from the penitentiary for killing a negro, was sitting near the altar, when Lon Glenn entered the church and noticing Bro. Curtis taking so prominent a part in the exercises, commenced to disfigure his face. Curtis arose and returned blow for blow. Soon Glenn drew a pistol and commenced firing. This was followed by a general stampede, and I brought the services to a close. Glenn will have an examining trial to-morrow morning before Judge Smith.

Killing in Ruckerville.

THE colored settlement of Ruckerville celebrated Christmas with the usual killing. About 11 o'clock Christmas morning a number of colored men and boys were standing on Second Street, promiscuously shooting with revolvers. Denis Logan, aged 19, came out of the house where he resided to participate in the fun. One of the shots struck him in the jugular vein, and he bled to death in a few moments. The affair caused a tremendous sensation in the village, "Son" Canaday and James Washington were arrested and lodged in jail, Canaday being charged with the offense by the Coroners jury, although it was thought to be purely accidental, as the two parties were said to be friends. The examining trial will be held Saturday before Judge Smith.

Paris Boy in Trouble.

JOHN B. WAKELY, son of T. D. Wakely of this city, and Sidney L. Ellis formerly of Lexington, engaged in a difficulty recently at Newport News Va., and Wakely shot and killed Ellis. Ellis was drinking at the time and the trouble originated over Wakely's refusal to loan him money. The parties had long been friends and had worked together for twenty years at Paris, Chattanooga and other places. Wakely is now out on bail.

Gave A Reception.

JUDGE HARMON STITT entertained every member of the Bourbon Bar at his offices on Broadway and High streets Wednesday, from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. The tables were prepared by Mrs. Holladay and Fee & Son, and the drinkables were gathered up from the different points of the compass. Delightful vocal and instrumental music was furnished by numidial troubadours. Several of the guests had the phones opened to their residences so their families could enjoy the singing. The good fellowship existing between the lawyers of this city is a source of pride and pleasure to the Bar and occasions of this kind always prove very enjoyable.

Notice.

I DESIRE to inform all of my customers that my porter is Elisha Williams, (of color), and not one Mr. Frederick, any white man stating that he is my porter and taking orders in my name is a base impostor.

Respectfully,

A Swell Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Lucy Walker Thornton of this city and Mr. Roy Clifford Ellis, of Cincinnati was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at the first Presbyterian church. The ceremony was performed by Dr. E. H. Rutherford in beautiful and impressive language. The church was lovely in its array of handsome flowers. The railing surrounding the altar being hung in graceful bunches of mistletoe and holly over a cover of white, back of this was a gorgeous collection of handsome palms entirely hiding from view the organist and its talented performer, Miss Frances Johnson who never played better. During the assembling of the invited guests the following noted pieces were rendered, March Anglaise, Melody by Ruytensteine, Angels Serenade, Faust chorus of Angels and Marche Au Flambeau. As the bridal party entered, Lohengrin's beautiful wedding march pealed forth in beautiful strains. The bride wore a handsome wedding gown of castor cloth, with trimmings of white and gold and hat of castor velvet and fur. She carried a graceful bunch of American beauty roses. The maid of honor who was Miss Vivian Ellis of Dayton, Ohio, and sister of the groom, looked lovely in a tan and brown suit with hat and gloves to match. Among those from a distance who attended the wedding were, from Cynthiana, Mrs. Ferguson, Miss Ella Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Durbin Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Swineford, Miss Emma Thorne, Misses McKee and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Dimmitt. Dr. H. O. Eranston, and Misses Vivian and Sue Ellis of Dayton Ohio. Messrs. SOCIALDOM.

The dance at Odd Fellows Hall, Tuesday evening, was one of the nicest dances ever given in Paris, though not so large as some. Many visitors from different counties were present, and the gowns of all the ladies seemed prettier, richer and costlier. In fact, the ladies, too, seemed prettier. The members of the Saffola Club are at all times gracious and entertaining hosts, and never more so than on this occasion. The music was especially beautiful and inspiring and was generally praised. It was furnished by the First Regiment Band, of Cincinnati, a noted musical organization of that city. Those present were: Misses Kate Blanton, (Richmond), Matilda Alexander, Ollie Butler, Marguerite Butler, Fannie Johnson, Eddie Spears, Elizabeth Woodford, Martha Clay, Jessie Turney, Kate Lucas, Sue Buckner, Gertrude Renick, Milda McMillan, Marie Parrish, Louise Parrish, Lizzette Dickson, Anna G.
